Ben R. Clark is announced as a candidate for treasurer of Graham county. The cost of maintaining the Bisbee public schools the past year was $15,964.64.

John Swanson fell 100 feet in the Oliver shaft, at Bisbee, last Friday night, and was instantly killed.

The Range News says: "It is reported that Master Arthur, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wooten, who reside near San Carlos, is very low with typhoid fever."

Grant Bros. lost several mules on the grade between Kelvin and Dudleyville last week as the result of the high temperature, but are pushing the work just the same, says the Blade.

The city council of Phoenix has formally accepted the gift of Andrew Carnegie of $25,000 for a public library, conditioned that the city furnish a site and pay $2500 annually for its maintenance.

The $11,000 in University bonds have been sold to Mayor Schumacher, of Tucson, who paid a premium of $570. The bonds run twenty years but may be recalled at any time. They bear 5 per cent interest.

Judge O'Brien who has been freely criticized for holding two offices—probate judge of Cochise county and superintendent of the reform school—has finally tendered his resignation of the former office.

The contract for a branch county jail at Bisbee has been let to A. L. Cahoon for $10,885.50. The branch jail will be equipped with electric lights and all sanitary appliances and will include six cells.

M. J. McKelligon, a Phoenix saloon keeper, who shot and killed Antonio Lara, a Mexican, was held to await the action of the grand jury, and gave bonds for his appearance. McKelligon claims that he shot Lara in self-defense.

The Arizona Printing & Publishing company will continue to publish the Bulletin at Solomonville. The American and Spanish editions of El Obrero has been divided and the American edition is published under the name of The Leader.

According to the St. Johns Herald, it is rumored in that section that Campbell & Francis, the sheepmen of Flagstaff, will graze 40,000 head of sheep on the Rio Puerco this summer. They will haul water on the railroad for their sheep.

The Phoenix Republican says: G. O. Scott, an inspector of the live stock sanitary board has seized a number of horses he found on the Indian reservation, that he thinks are either strays or were stolen and will advertise them at once.

F. A. Gowing left for Imperial today to be gone about four months. He stored his assay outfit here and will return to resume business in the spring. He has accepted for the present, at Imperial, a position as chemist.—Florence Blade.

Mrs. Barnes, wife of Judge W. H. Barnes of Tucson, was thrown from a rickshaw, on the World's fairgrounds at St. Louis, July 6, and sustained serious injuries. It was feared her hip was fractured and probably the foot. Judge Barnes left for St. Louis last Friday morning.

A young man by the name of Conway is suffering terribly from tuberculosis in his foot. It is not generally known that this disease may occur in any other tissue as well as the lungs, but such is the case, and this instance will probably end in the amputation of the member.—Tombstone Prospector.

Firecrackers caused the loss of the residence of "Pump" Webb, located near the church, Alma, on Sunday, says the Mesa Free Press. When the fire was discovered it had gained such headway that nothing could be saved. Mr. Webb lost everything, clothing, furniture, etc. The fire started from exploded firecrackers.

Arizona was well represented at the democratic national convention. Beside the Hearst delegation and alternates, regularly elected by the Tucson delegation, there was the Parker delegation, which although self constituted, took all of the honors for the territory. It included Marcus A. Smith, ex-delegate to congress; Col.

J. B. Breathitt, formerly national committeeman; W. B. Kelly, of the Bisbee Review, and A. O. Bernard, of Tucson and Cananea.—Tucson Post.

Fred Bohner, an employee of the Tombstone Consolidated, who was working at the big shaft had occasion to look after some detail under the boiler, and while in that situation, a valve blew out and before he could extricate himself he was fearfully scalded from head to foot, and his chances of recovery are very slight.

The Montezuma Flour Milling company, of Solomonville, has suspended indefinitely. The mill was built about five years ago at a cost, including water power, of $30,000. The greatest drawback to the success of the enterprise has been the lack of sufficient wheat to operate the mill throughout the year.

The Yuma Sun announces that land owners are steadily signing the contracts for national irrigation. Almost all opposition to it has ceased and it is now thought to be a matter of but a short time when the Water Users' association officers can announce to the secretary of the interior that it is ready to close the deal.

About seventy-five men were laid off in the shops in the first of the week. This is the direct result of orders issued from the main offices to all branches and divisions of the Southern Pacific. As a result of the cut, several machines are standing idle in the shops and work that is badly needed on the engines has been stopped.—Tucson Post.

An eye doctor by the name of J. H. Gerling has been passing bogus checks, signed G. H. Wilson, on the confiding merchants of Tucson. Duran Daily is a victim to the tune of $76; Chas. F. Hoff, $30, and a Greek fruiterer, $15. Landlord Reid, of the Park View hotel, has Gerling's trunk for fourteen days' board bill, but is afraid to open it, expecting to find a "gold brick" within.

J. H. W. Jensen of the Coahuila club is in the city today. He states that the water supply in his part of the county is not nearly so good as other liquids. At present he gets water but once in thirteen days and unless there is rain very soon Mr. Jensen states that he will lose nearly a thousand shade trees surrounding his country place on the Tempe road.—Enterprise.

F. A. Adams came down from Dudleyville Wednesday. He has been prospecting in the vicinity of Saddle mountain and reports that the Arizona Eastern grading crew are throwing rock in the Gila canyon in great shape. He says that it sounds as if there was an artillery duel in progress in the Gila canyon. Beside open cuts, he says they are working on a long tunnel.—Florence Blade.

Typhoid fever continues at Clifton. Mrs. Wood died last week. There has been typhoid fever in that place for more than three years, and as yet the origin of the fever, the source of the poison, has not yet been discovered. The town has been cleaned up often, and after the cleanup the fever cases are less frequent. Often in such epidemics of typhoid the source of the fever is hard to find.—Lordsburg Liberal.

Perhaps many people in this county are not aware of the fact that, according to the New York Health Bulletin, the purest article of beer and porter ever produced is made in Ramsey Canyon, in the Huachuacs, by Andrea Jaeger. This old gentleman manufactures this commodity on a small scale, and refuses to wholesale, though constantly solicited to do so, and he has been offered all kinds of money for his secret.—Tombstone Prospector.

According to the assessment roll of Cochise county, the Boquillas Land & Cattle company is the largest taxpayer of all the large cattle owners in that county. The assessment of this company is $70,712. The San Simon company, San Rafael Land Grant company, Greene Cattle company, Chiricahua Cattle company, Hysham & Neal and W. H. McKittick are among the larger owners, in the order named, ranging in assessed valuation from $62,500 down to $25,000. There are numerous other large owners of cattle in that county.

William Herron was shot at Middleton, Yavapai county, on Tuesday, and is now in the Mercy hospital at Prescott, in a very critical condition. The man who did the shooting was Mike Sullivan, who flourished the pistol around in a very foolish manner. The crowd left the saloon very hurriedly when Sullivan began his antics and Herron was the last to get out. As he went through the door the shot was fired that hit him. The bullet entered the victim's back and came out below the neck, penetrating the left lung above the heart. Sullivan was not arrested at last account here, but it was thought he would be.—Republican.

The last service of Prof. R. L. McDonald, superintendent of the schools of Phoenix, was performed yesterday. He completed the report which the law requires him to make and submit to the county superintendent. The professor began the work of making the report soon after he was brought back from San Diego under arrest. He has since continued it in jail and it is unique for the reason that it is perhaps the first school report in the history of the boasted public school system of this glorious republic that was ever made out in jail.—Phoenix Republican.

Millard, the little son of Recorder Peyton, of Florence, was stung by a scorpion last week. His mother thinking it was an ant bite applied soda which eased the pain, but soon the boy's throat commenced to swell and the muscles to twitch. When Dr. Brookway arrived the child could not talk or swallow medicine. The doctor injected medicine and worked with the little sufferer for two hours before he got the better of the poison and produced a turn for the better. Two large scorpions were found where the boy had been playing when stung.

Frank Young lost his life at the Calumet & Arizona smelter while working with other laborers in cleaning out one of the furnaces which has been in repair. Young was working in the lower part of the furnace and other men were at work in the tubular, or upper part of the furnace. The men working above loosened an immense piece of slag hanging in the furnace. Before it was realized that the mass was about to fall it tumbled below, crushing through a scaffolding under which Young was at work and pinning him without warning to the floor. The death of the man was probably instantaneous.—Douglas International-American.

Pat Devine was killed by Eugene Tourtelotte at Miles ranch, Yuma county. Both men were prospectors. The verdict of the jury was that Pat Devine came to his death by gunshot wounds inflicted by Eugene Tourtelotte with murderous intent. The only witness, Staiger, proved very unsatisfactory in his testimony, contradicting himself in several instances. Both parties were more or less under the influence of liquor. In addition to the fatal gunshot wounds, Devine had a scalp wound and a bruised left arm. No money was found upon him despite the fact that he was paid a considerable sum that morning. Tourtelotte was given a preliminary examination and was held to the next grand jury without bail.

The solar motor at Tempe was inspected by Santa Fe officials last Friday, who are greatly interested in it, as the Santa Fe passes through so much arid country and the motor offers a means of opening up the country and making prosperous settlements where it is possible to pump water for irrigation. The solar motor is the successful result of nine years of labor and the expenditure of $125,000. The Solar Motor company has contracts with the British government for the erection of two motors in South Africa, and with Egypt for the erection of one motor. Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, of the Grand Trunk railroad in Canada, has charge of the motors for South Africa. One will be sent to Bloemfontain and one to Johannesburg. Next fall, Mr. Haskell, himself, will go to Egypt to erect a motor at Cairo. These machines are not ready for shipment.

Judge N. G. Layton, territorial superintendent of public instruction, has been requested by I. C. Six, LL.B., secretary to the president of the University of Washington, D. C., to select two young people in the territory, either male or female, for three-year scholarships in the Washington university. The University of Washington was established on the birthday of George Washington in 1898, and for that reason was named for him. It is now being placed in excellent condition and will be made a complete university with all departments of science, literature, etc. The scholarships are free and are apportioned among the states and territories according to population. At present, Arizona receives two scholarships.

The breaking of the main shaft of the pumping plant at Del Rio, which supplies Prescott with water, impressed upon the citizens of that town the need of a duplicate pumping plant, and a public meeting was held at which Mayor Burke presided. Everybody agreed upon the fact that a pump was needed, says the Herald, but none of the citizens could suggest a plausible scheme to get one. The cost of a duplicate plant will be about $15,000. While that sum does not seem large to many people, it is quite a sum to a city whose treasury is in a badly depleted state. The interest to be paid on the indebtedness is almost equal to the total amount of taxes coming in. If there is any show of laying up money under such circumstances we should like for some one better posted in finance to show the way, says the Herald.
